THE RAILROAD TO BURBANK.

Full Details of the Proposition—The Route to Be Followed, Etc.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with or misunderstand the details of the proposition made by M. H. French, of Los Angeles, for the construction of a railroad from Tropic to Burbank, we take occasion to outline it in this issue while the matter is actively before the people. The road as shown on the map prepared by Mr. French's engineers, starts from the intersection of the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric lines at Tropic and runs parallel to the Southern Pacific on its East side until it reaches a point just south of the turn in the San Fernando road, where it cuts diagonally across the 12 1/2-acre vineyard owned by the Glasell estate and runs north on Pacific avenue through the Glendale Valley View Tract, Houston's West Glendale Tract, and Oliver's West Glendale Tract, making a turn to the west from Patterson street and running in a straight line up Fourth street, drops down onto Second street this side of Providencia, entering Burbank on Second street.

Mr. French agrees to build this road and have it in operation within one year from the time that a complete right-of-way and the required bonus of $30,000 is secured, and he expresses his willingness to satisfy the people in interest that he will carry out the proposition as outlined in any reasonable manner they may demand. The route from Tropic to Burbank is 10c. The agreements that are prepared and which will be submitted to the people for signatures both for right-of-way and subscriptions explicitly state that no deeds are to pass and no bonuses to be payable until after the road is completed and in operation. All agreements for right-of-way and subscriptions to the bonus to be placed with the Burbank State Bank to be delivered by them to Mr. French when he has fulfilled his part of the agreement. This certainly seems to us to indicate that Mr. French means business inasmuch as nobody will have any money up except himself, and nobody's property will be in any way jeopardized nor parted with until the railroad is an actual fact. The only person that runs any risk or takes any chance is Mr. French.

There has been some question as to what kind of a railroad is to be built. Mr. French states that it will be either an electric road or will operate cars run by gasoline or other motive power, but will not be a steam road in the sense that it will haul heavy freight or run locomotives. It is to be primarily a road designed to serve the people and for passenger traffic, although, of course, it is contemplated that it will carry light freight such as berries and other produce that are now hauled to town by team.

At this writing the people in that territory, which is generally known as West Glendale, have been very successful in securing the necessary right-of-way and are assured of their proportion of the bonus. The Tropic people also seem heartily in accord with the movement, and there seems to be little doubt but that complete right-of-way and bonus will be arranged for by them within a few days. While practically every one at Burbank realizes the many benefits to be derived through the advent of a street car line and a decidedly material advantage in the way of increase in the values of their property, to say nothing of the convenience it will be to Burbank citizens, there seems to be some slight difference of opinion as to the choice of route for the road.

Some people desire that it run all the way into Burbank on Fourth street. This Mr. French has stated would be an impossible proposition as far as he is concerned. First for the reason that to have a road enter Burbank that is at all desirable, it must come into the heart of the town. No one would want a road terminating midway between the town and the foothills, and in order to run to the business part of Burbank, going as far as Olive street on Fourth street, would make two impossible grades and two very undesirable right angle curves. In railroad construction one of the prime things to be attained in laying out a road is to avoid heavy grades and sharp curves, as these both add to the cost of construction and maintenance and also make it slower and more dangerous in operation of cars.

In times past there has been more or less agitation for railroads for Burbank, none of which have materialized. It will be remembered that not so very long ago a proposition was made to the people of Burbank to build a road if they would raise $20,000. The road to run along the foothills. After devoting a great deal of time this amount was raised by subscription, when the parties who made the proposition withdrew it and stated that it would require $40,000. There have been many rumors and even some surveys for railroads, but as far as we know this is the first bona fide proposition made by railroad men to Burbank citizens and the people of the proposed right of way whereby a road may actually be built. It seems to us that the people should not be slow in taking advantage of this opportunity to secure that for which they have long been in great need, indeed it is the one essential thing necessary to bring Burbank to the front.

With its many natural advantages, its splendid surrounding territory and reasonable distance from Los Angeles, there is no reason why it should not become one of the parliors of Southern California.

RUNAWAY.

Last Tuesday afternoon City Marshal Miller hitched the new fire engine horse to a dirt wagon at the livery stable, proposing to give him some much needed exercise. The barley he had been consuming in his hours of idleness between fires had filled the animal with an ambition to do things, and he broke away as soon as Mr. Miller turned him loose. There was a lively-steep chase across Glendale avenue, over curb and around the tin shop with the city marshal hanging on valiantly to the lines, but an obtrusive electric light pole in the alley caught the front wheel, threw the wagon aside, scattered the marshal and the wagon bed around the vacant lots promiscuously, while the animal continued its wild dash for liberty and Fourth street. Arriving at that thoroughfare about the same time it started, the animal swerved, broke the connecting link between front and rear axle, leaving the latter at that point and proceeded with the front axle toward the Sanitarium. After wrecking some shrubbery and a tree or two in its course, the animal allowed the pursuing marshal to capture him. Mr. Miller's escape from serious injury was remarkable.

PRISCILLA'S MEET.

Mrs. Donald Dominy, Brand boulevard, on Wednesday very prettily entertained the Priscilla Club. There was a good attendance, and after the busy hour refreshments were served by the hostess.

CITY TRUSTEES.

Present all members except Mr. Watson. The following demands were referred to the finance committee: Title Insurance and Trust Co., blue prints, $15.60; Glendale Light and Power Co., May lights, $57.50; Glendale Hardware Co., license numbers, 45c; W. L. Nelson, labor street department, $4.00; C. E. Byrkit, desk and cartage, $17.00. Demands 583 to 594, 598, 600 and 606 previously referred to the finance committee were favorably reported and warrants ordered drawn.

By motion it was ordered that bids for the improvement of Cedar street, between Third and Sixth streets, be opened and declared. Bids as follows were then opened, read and referred to city engineer for report at next meeting. Tamped Oil Roads Co., grading 20c, oiling 1 1/2c, curb 28c, sidewalk 10c; Lapp-Gifford Co., grading 35c, oiling 1 1/2c, curb 27c, sidewalk 10c; E. A. McCombs, grading 12c, oiling 1 7-16c, curb 23c, sidewalk 9c.

A question was raised as to the completeness of profiles of Cedar street and was referred to city engineer. An extension of 45 days was granted the contractor on Fourth street, east of Glendale avenue. A communication was received from F. E. Schierholz and others having property on Third street, asking that the trustees carefully consider the matter of granting the petition asking that said street be abandoned and a private right of way given for railroad purposes.

A communication was received from the trustees of Wilmington concerning the proposed improvement of the inner harbor at San Pedro and Wilmington. The same was received and in reference to the same the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That we heartily approve of the good work which the trustees of the city of Wilmington are doing in their endeavor to preserve the rights of the people in and to the inner harbor of San Pedro and Wilmington; that it is the desire of the board of trustees of Glendale to attend the meeting to be held at Wilmington June 18th, and that it invites the Glendale Board of Trade and the Civics Committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club to attend the same."

An ordinance was read the first and second times regulating the slaughter of animals within the city of Glendale.

Trustee Anderson offered a resolution which was adopted directing the president of the Board of Trustees and the city clerk to execute a deed to J. P. Lukens for the property vacated as an alley on Fourth street, 140 feet west of Verdugo road.

In regard to the question referred to the city attorney at the last meeting as to the establishment of reservoirs within the city limits, the attorney reported that the city is not competent to pass any such ordinance.

The city engineer made the following report on bids for the improvement of Fourth street, between Central avenue and Brand boulevard: George B. Mock, $1,895.22; E. A. McCombs, $2,025.49; C. W. Coneway, $2,022.98; H. V. Gifford, $1,990.92; Tamped Oil Roads Co., $2,268.74. The bid of George B. Mock was accepted.

Report of the building inspector was received and read, showing building permits for May aggregating $23,000.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES GRADUATING CLASS GLENDALE CITY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The Methodist church was crowded to its capacity last Friday evening and many could only find standing room to witness the graduating exercises of a class of 22 young people from our public school. The decorations were profuse and artistically arranged. The red carnation, the adopted flower of the class, being much in evidence and lending richness to the wealth of roses and sweet peas that bedecked the edifice. Almost everybody was there or was represented by one or more members of the family, so that any attempt to refer to the program in detail would be superfluous. The Class History and Class Prophecy, by Miss Lulu Green and Miss Edna Burton respectively, were particularly bright and original papers. All the numbers on the program were good, and excellent taste was shown in the selection of the subjects. We commend the good judgment which refrained from essays on political economy and other weighty topics. The music, vocal and instrumental, was excellent. The orchestra is small but possesses the quality. The choruses were enjoyable to the fullest degree and won merited encores. Mrs. Anderson who is responsible for the excellent results achieved in this line during the term just ended, deserves commendations for what she has done with the young, and in most cases undeveloped voices. The address of Professor Knoles was appropriate in matter and delivered in a pleasing manner. We are glad to have an orator of this gentleman's ability in our community, in a few well chosen words, without attempting to make a speech, Mr. G. E. Williams, member of the Board of Trustees, presented the diplomas. The principal, Mrs. M. O. Ryan, and her assistants, deserve praise not only for the very evident good results of the year's work, but also for the well managed finale.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

On Wednesday morning Miss Leora Melrose Kimball, daughter of Mrs. E. Kimball, Central avenue, became the bride of Thomas Stanton, Jr., Rev. J. O'Neill officiating. After the marriage ceremony, witnessed only by near relatives and friends, there followed a charming wedding breakfast, served in a bower of roses, carnations and pure white lilies. These blossoms, combined with delicate greenery, decorated the rooms throughout.

After the many wishes for happiness and hearty congratulations, the couple departed for San Diego, where they will spend the honeymoon. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Stanton will reside in a pretty bungalow home which is costly furnished and ready for their coming, and where they will soon be at home to their many friends.

DEATH OF CLARENCE D. FENTON.

Clarence D. Fenton, who with his family has been residing for some months on the Sparr ranch, near Crescenta, died the early part of the week after a protracted illness. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church, Glendale, Tuesday afternoon last, the Rev. W. S. Blackburn, assisted by Rev. Burton, officiating. Interment took place at Forest Lawn cemetery. Mr. Fenton was 43 years of age.

Monrovia is struggling with a license ordinance taxing business carried on in that municipality. The law just adopted favors home industry as against outsiders, particularly protecting the local laundry, and agents for outside laundries claim the provision affecting them is unconstitutional. The ordinance adopted will yield a revenue of $200 per month.

A bank failed in Guthrie, Oklahoma, the other day, and now we shall see something of the working of the Populist-Socialistic law guaranteeing the payment of bank deposits. The fund which furnishes the guarantee is collected by a tax on the paid-up capital of all banks doing business in the state.

There are two objections urged against this experiment in banking: one is that it is unfair to tax well established and undoubtedly sound institutions, for the purpose of protecting the public against weak and possibly dishonest concerns. The other is the danger of encouraging reckless and fraudulent concerns; putting a practical premium upon carelessness, not only on the part of the managers of banks, but upon depositors as well. However, the object lesson to be given by the new state should be valuable; we can well afford to hold our theories in suspense.

Who First Nominated Taft?

This paper was among the earliest in California to declare its support of Mr. Taft's candidacy for the presidency. This it did Sept. 7 of last year, unequivocally stating: "The Express favors the nomination of William H. Taft."—L. A. Express.

We congratulate our contemporary upon having at such an early date declared its support of Mr. Taft for the presidency, but with proper modesty we beg to inform the Express that on January 19, 1907, we made this declaration: "Therefore we nominate William H. Taft, of Ohio, to succeed Theodore Roosevelt to the presidency."

We have been hearing a continuous chorus of seconds to the motion ever since. We intend to notify Mr. Taft's manager that we want the post office, the custom house, the Irish consulate at Glendale and a few more little things in the way of perquisites when the spoils are distributed to the victors.

The Express is all right; but slow, very slow!

Egypt, is said to lament the passing of the good old times.

The best times are, according to the guesser's temperament, in the unknown future or in the barbaric past. In our opinion, life is always good, but better today, taking the world over, and every class, than it has been at any date of which we have authentic history or reasonable surmise. Let us not forget that the laborer has more education and more comfort now than the prince of a few centuries ago. Let us not forget that the fair ladies of King Arthur's court would not be allowed at a chorus girls' ball today unless they took a bath. A few are wanderers and a few starve in Europe and America today. Famine, pestilence and sudden death were once the usual lot. Eight hours of fairly skillful labor now means comfort, and better conditions and even shorter hours are but a little way ahead.

Let us dream as many new worlds as we may please, but no legislation that any man may dream can possibly do him as much good, in body, mind and soul, as the bicycle habit, or a long walk every Sunday across the meadows and the hills.

We can and shall improve the conditions on this earth, but in a still larger sense this life is forever what we make it for ourselves; the world is what we select to see and do—Collier's.

Easy Marks

That great apostle of a Tariff for Revenue (for the Bryan family) who is one of the heaviest taxpayers in Lincoln, Neb., is now working individual Democrats throughout the land on a circulation scheme for the "Commoner" which, if successful, will yield the perennial candidate for the presidency the fine sum of $280,000.

The circular invites the "easy marks" to help the Commoner "organize an army of one million workers to bring a Democratic victory." They are to assist by remitting forty-five cents each to the Commoner office for a copy of that delectable sheet during the campaign! But note the word "bring." Democratic victories are coy creatures now-a-days; they are well worth forty-five cents apiece. Presumably the creature when caught is to be brought by the army of one million to Lincoln, Neb., where the captors will gloat over it until surfeited, or at least until they have their forty-five cents' worth, when it will be turned over to the Perennial to do with it as he pleases—such a short remove is the twentieth century from barbarism!

But we can guess what he will do; he will put a chain in its nose, build a tent around it and charge the curious throng of "easy marks" forty-five cents admission for the "benefit of the Democratic party." And then when the season is over, whatever the result of the attempt of the army of one million to bring the thing in, the sublime orator and worker of the "common people" will once more appear on the public platform and instruct the world at large (at fifty cents per capita, not forty-five or even forty-nine,) as to how they must vote in order to save the world from the "plutocrats."

Secretary Taft on Gen. Grant

In a Memorial Day speech, Secretary Taft alluded to the fact that Gen. U. S. Grant at one time in his career (previous to the civil war) was addicted to over indulgence in intoxicants. His allusion to the fact at all could have but one object and could be used by him in but one way and for one purpose, which was to draw attention to the fact that U. S. Grant, altho at one time dangerously near to ruin through yielding to a human weakness, was man enough, strong enough, great enough to master his tempter, and by stepping on it rise to the heights of greatness which he attained.

Men do not admire a drunkard; but he is a poor creature indeed who does not admire and honor the man who having been down in the depths, has the will power which enables him to reform and become a man. Gen. Grant's victory over himself was not inferior to his victory over Lee and was doubtless won by a far more strenuous struggle. His victory over himself is an inspiring one to every man who knows what it is to struggle against a similar temptation. His case was not as unusual as some may imagine, but is none the less creditable to him. Many a man whose habits were such as to render his future almost hopeless to his friends, has been inspired to reform and lead a useful life by having had placed upon him the weight of responsibility.

One of the best of the judges who have adorned the bench of the superior court in Los Angeles was, previous to his elevation to that responsible position, known to be an able lawyer, but a man too convivial in his habits. His reform was swift when he was put in a position which he realized must be filled by a man with brain free from the influence of alcohol.

Grant as a man who had a weakness for strong drink is an object of pity; but as a man who overcame that weakness, he is deserving of "greater honor than he who taketh a city."

Those attending St. Mark's church last Sunday evening were well rewarded by assisting at the bright and attractive service presented on that occasion. The organist opened the service with one of Batistes' beautiful voluntaries, and the choir showed careful training in singing special settings of the Canticles and the anthem, "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes Unto the Hills." The offertory solo, Carey's superb song, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung in excellent style by Mr. Archibald Withers of Los Angeles.

Though in no sense intended as a concert, as erroneously stated in the Los Angeles Times of Saturday last, the service was a pleasure to those who appreciate good church music.

The Rev. Badger preached an appropriate sermon on "Music," considered as an aid to worship both here and hereafter.

This was the first of a series, of musical services to be given on the evening of the first Sunday in each month.

Many a fine tribute was paid to the Catholic church by non-Catholic writers on the occasion of the recent great centenary celebration: Referring to the celebration the Presbyterian Banner, of Pittsburg, Pa., said:

"The anniversary has been made the occasion of numerous congratulations and kindly references on the part of the secular and religious press, Protestant as well as Roman Catholic. In these congratulations all intelligent and well disposed Protestants can sincerely join. The Roman Catholic church is the most ancient and is still the largest branch of Christianity in this country and in the world, and it stands for the fundamentals of Christian faith and practice. It holds to and proclaims the fatherhood of God, the deity of Christ, the Bible as the word of God, the Christian Sabbath, Christian marriage, penitence and forgiveness, prayer and worship, and righteousness in character and conduct. It is especially a bulwark today against socialism and anarchism, divorce and godless education. The way it fills its churches with worshippers on the Sabbath is an encouraging fact, and it has a hold on the masses of the people in the cities, especially those of foreign birth, that no other church has. It is an example to Protestant Christianity in unity, in gifts, in discipline and service, in zeal and sacrifice."

The fact that such a comment from such a source is made today illustrates better than anything else could the growth of a true Christian spirit among the sects that leaves no room for bigotry.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

During the six months just closed in which the Glendale library has taken its first step as a public library in charge of a paid librarian, the advancement has been most gratifying to the board of trustees, who are aiming to make five hundred dollars, the first year's appropriation, cover as many needed expenses as possible.

During the time the list of borrowers has more than doubled and over one hundred books, besides many magazines, have been added by gift, which is an indication of the interest taken by the public in the institution. The set of fourteen volumes of Universal Knowledge contributed by Mrs. Hunt is particularly desirable, as no large set of encyclopedias is yet owned by the library.

The twenty-one bound volumes of Scribners from Dr. and Mrs. Garmon are especially valuable as books of reference, this magazine being indexed in the Poole Index.

Since last reported the following contributions of literature have been received at the library: Mrs. Hunt, 14 volumes - "Universal Knowledge"; "Mountains of California," "Alice in Wonderland," "Guide Board," "Literature, Art and Song," "Jewels of Bible," "His of Missing Conference," Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Gorman 21 volumes bound Scribners, one unbound Scribners; Clarence Lechner, "Young Acrobat"; Mrs. Witham, descriptive book of Point Loma; Harry Chase, eight miscellaneous; Mrs. Barager, five volumes of World's Great Events; friend, "Life Power and How to Use It"; "Almost a Man," "Almost a Woman"; Mrs. Nudge, eleven Harpers; Mrs. Lenox, "Missions of Pacific Branch"; Mrs. Labarr, "Octopus," "Youth's Golden Cycle"; Blanche Labarr, "Cast Up By the Sea," "Merry Animal Tales"; Miss Irene Ward, "Drummond's Essay," "McLeod of Dare," "Two Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "Child's History of England"; Mrs. McConnell, ten Munseys; Mr. Talbot, five miscellaneous, 72 Colliers.

A few best late books have been added by purchase and others will be put on the shelves by the board, which will, during school vacation, cater especially to the tastes of the students.

The third of a series of library benefits given by interested members of the Tuesday Afternoon club has recently been held. In this way over twenty dollars has been raised, which has been placed in the hands of a committee to be used in the purchase of books for the library.

On the library table may be found the following current magazines, back numbers of which are loaned: McClures, Ladies' Home Journal, Cosmopolitan, Sunset, Saturday Evening Post, Little Folks, St. Nicholas, Out West, Century, Harpers, Current Literature and Popular Science Monthly.

The librarian is most attentive and helpful to all inquiries. A dozen sets of shelves purchased from the South Pasadena library will be a great convenience, as the shelves are now overcrowded.

The appropriation of $1,000 the second year will greatly increase the capacity and usefulness of the library.

SECRETARY LIBRARY BOARD.

CHAPTER L. CONVENES.

A rousing and thoroughly delightful meeting was held by Chapter L. P. E. O., on Monday in the home of Mrs. Josephine Bryant, when the program was freighted with surprises and poetic originality in addition to an elegant luncheon.

The day supplied a triple affair. Besides being the time of regular meeting, it served as a "going away" party for a popular member of the sisterhood, Miss Bertha Fuller, and also as an announcement for the marriage in the near future of one of the sweetest members, Miss Charlotte Blaisdell, to Mr. Will Goss. Showers of congratulations and blessings followed the announcement, given in an original poem read by Miss Frances Hendershott. There will be one more regular meeting for the closing of the P. E. O. year.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The closing exercises of the Tropico grammar school were held Friday of last week under a large canvas spread for the occasion over a portion of the Athletic grounds. At 10 a. m. the children assembled and to a lively march rendered by Miss Elise Vance, graduate of the class of '08, the pupils filed into their respective places on the campus. The exercises opened with a red, white and blue drill, by the forty pupils of the first grade under the supervision of Miss Flora Chandler, instructor. The lassies in white frocks wearing tri-colored Yankee Doodle hats and carrying flags, kept marked and measured step with the lads of their class, who also wore the cocked hats of red, white and blue and carried their country's banner. Each pupil was so intent in performing his or her duty that it was impossible to tell which excelled, for there were American, English, Italian, Spanish, German, French, Japanese and African youngsters marching side by side singing lustily and waving their pretty flags.

Miss Freda Borthick, instructor in the second and third grades, with her merry troop of children, entertained with several songs, closing with a frog croaking song and drill and fancy step. Mary Evans Hough gave a recitation, "In 1492," after which Lillie Schick, Rachel McClure, Sadie Snell and Eleanor Collins sang a quartette. Frances Spence gave a reading, followed by a clown drill, composed of twelve boys, pupils of Miss Jennie Clay, instructor in the fifth grade. Miss Elise Vance had just finished a lively march when these young clowns, attired in fantastic costumes and faces painted so loud that a Comanche Indian would run for the brush, came trooping in, following their leader, Campbell Bishop, who heralded their appearance by beating a drum. The drill, various maneuvers and tricks performed proved that Barnum and Bailey circus had not passed this way recently, for they certainly would have solicited the services of these youngsters, who caused so much genuine merriment. Campbell Bishop had most resourceful and willing allies when he selected Miles Wilkinson, Harry Hayward, Robert Horn, Willie Richardson, Leo Light, Burt Richardson, Glenn Rhodes, Alvin Flanders, Alphonson Montott, Shirley Melrose, Donald Murray.

Miss Lucreta Scofield, with her little sister Wanda, gave a piano solo. Marjorie Imler gave the "Village School." Sixteen pretty rosy-cheeked girls of the sixth and seventh grades, Miss May Cornwall, teacher, gave the "waters drill," with Elise Vance as accompanist. The girls wore white dresses, dainty, befrilled aprons, smart, jaunty caps and carried small nickel-plated trays. The girls who participated in this drill were Misses Katherine Hobbs, Mable Evans, Minerva Hayward, Grace Nicholson, Rosa Cartotto, Hazel Allen, Eva Oliver, Gladys Bronson, Eva Kirkpatrick, Marguerita Ribonsin, Mary Montott, Jennie Boring, Tryphenia Jennings, Nina Claver, Violet Eckstein and Helen Kapus.

Eight boys and girls of the third and fourth grades, Miss Clarice Merrill, teacher, each bearing a letter of vacation, gave a drill, closing with three cheers, lead by Clarke Searles, for the graduates. These eight vacation children were Carrie Stone, Martin Abarta, Myrl Murray, Mary Barlet, Harwood Collins, Clarke Searles, Agness Stief and Robert Abarta.

Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, gave a few picked up remarks.

Rex Rhodes, one of the popular graduates, stepped on the platform and, in a bright complimentary speech, offered three cheers for Mrs. McClure, principal of the school, and her corps of teachers, three cheers for the trustees, and three for the county superintendent, Mark Keppel, all of which were most lustily given.

Mrs. McClure then announced the names of the pupils who, by their excellent scholarship and deportment, had won the Selz liberty bell medals. As the pupils responded to their names and received their medals of superior scholarship they were cheered most heartily. These pupils, thus honored, were Newton McKown and Marjorie Imler, of the third grade; Takiyi Ito and Clarke Searles, fourth grade; Merrill Blain and Helen McKown, fifth grade; Shirley Melrose and Tryphenia Jennings, George Flanders, Gladys Bronson, sixth grade; Channing Follette and Marguerite Robinson, seventh grade; Roland Brett, Lucreta Scofield and Elise Vance, eighth grade.

After the medals had been awarded and Mrs. McClure and corps of teachers had received congratulations upon the excellent school work and the marked discipline maintained throughout the school year, pupils, teachers, parents and guests assembled in the grove, on the school grounds, and enjoyed a most appetizing basket luncheon. Then at 4 o'clock the school bell rang the last time for this year, thus marking one of the most successful school years for the Tropico grammar school.

TWENTY-TWO SAY "GOOD-BYE."

The graduating exercises of the Tropico grammar school were held in the auditorium of the school building Monday, which had been most profusely decorated in white and green, the class colors.

White carnations, the class flower, were generously used in the decorations. The program was arranged:

Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. McClure for the delightful and well rendered program, which added another interesting feature to the closing of the Tropico schools.

The school auditorium was crowded—even packed—long before the program was opened. The graduates, of whom there were twenty-two, received many beautiful flowers and gifts. The flower display was magnificent. Bouquets and baskets of flowers were arranged in masses on the platform.

The graduates who bade farewell to Tropico Grammar school amid such an array of fair flowers and lovely blossoms were: Virginia Allen, Regina Bacon, Louis Bittle, Roland Brett, Mabel Coleman, Albert Enoch, Dee Flanders, Angelina Pal, Ruth Harrison, Irene Hawkins, Estella Hayward, Earl McKnight, Herbert McCarroll, Cloyce McCarroll, Stella Miller, Lorenzo Rifenberck, Rex Rhodes, Lucreta Scofield, Blanche Shea, Phoebe Snell, Adolf Ungerland and Elise Vance.

The diplomas were presented by A. W. Collins, president of the school board.

CLOSING EXHIBITION.

Fond mammas, doting papas, and admiring friends assembled at Logan's hall Wednesday evening to witness the May pole dance and closing exercises of the boys and girls of Mrs. Charles L. Peckham's dancing class. The girls ranging from four years to fourteen years of age wore pretty fluffy dresses of white crepe paper, and the boys, from six to fourteen years, wore white waists and white duck knickerbockers. Several fancy dances were given by the children, after which they waltzed and two-stepped until 10 o'clock, when they retired and the guests of Mrs. Peckham and the children, their parents and friends, tipped the light fantastic toe. Mrs. Charles Peckham was presented a handsome gold bowl silver bon bon spoon by her class.

FAREWELL PARTY.

As a token of their love and esteem for charming Helen Kapus, their school and classmate, the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Tropico grammar school tendered Miss Helen a farewell surprise party at Logan's hall Thursday evening. Music and dancing furnished a most delightful evening. Dainty refreshments were served la buffet.

This pleasant affair, which proved such a delightful surprise for Miss Helen, was chaperoned by Mrs. John Hobbs, Mrs. W. A. Hough, Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, Mrs. S. T. Boring, Mrs. E. W. Richardson, Mrs. Charles Barker and Mrs. H. J. Kapus.

"ODYLLIC DOYLE."

We have known our erstwhile neighbor, R. G. Doyle, a number of years as a successful real estate manipulator and have had a suspicion all that time that he possessed "odyllic" or some kind of power. We went to the Chutes Park the other day to witness his demonstration of the mysterious force, which he claims to possess but not to understand. When a mere man, even if he does weigh 300 pounds, claims the possession of healing power by the laying on of hands, or blowing through the victims ears and chest, its a matter worth looking into. About a thousand people witnessed the performance; that is there were 999 besides ourselves, to be exact. It was a special hour for the benefit of unfortunates suffering from locomotor ataxia. There were so many applicants for treatment that every one was given a number, and the one to be treated was selected by lot. Promptly at 2 o'clock as advertised, the odyllic phenomenon appeared upon the stage clad in a purple and gold costume that would make a eastern potentate turn green with envy—there was a crown or a tiara or something of the kind on his head. No, we looked at it the second time, it was not a halo. The head piece did not seem to be a fit for it was quickly discarded, but the robe was all right and clung fondly about the portly form of the wonder. The stage setting was unique; it consisted of Mrs. Doyle and a semi-circle of lesser DoYLES, the latter a fine collection of young wonders—boys. The first patient was brought up on a wheeled chair. It was certainly a bad case and after massaging him vigorously on the head and legs and blowing through his ears, Mr. Doyle announced that it was impossible to cure him the "first time," and the unfortunate was wheeled down again. The next to come was a young man evidently in the first stages of the disease, who could still navigate without assistance. The wonder, after rubbing his hands together to induce the odyllic current presumably, rubbed the head of the patient, also his back, and bade him walk around the stage to see how much better he felt. This was repeated twice and then the man walked off the stage possibly a little more steadily than he ascended. The next man was assisted to the platform by a friend, and after vigorous rubbing was able to wobble down into the audience again alone. Five patients were treated during the hour. The last man to receive treatment insisted on addressing the audience, and announced that he felt better than he had for many years. One of those treated walked up with the assistance of a cane and won applause when he left by going down the steps into the audience without that assistance, although it must be confessed that his gait was so uncertain as to appear unreliable for every day use. On the whole the performance was not strictly in the remarkable class, but we presume that those who were treated received at least some temporary relief from the vigorous rubbing and manipulating of joints which they received from the hands of the "Odyllic Wonder."

CONCERNING THE CANTEN.

The press reporter of the W. C. T. U. furnishes us the following, which is a portion of an address by Mrs. Clinton Smith, delivered at the annual convention in Washington:

"Some say we are responsible for the destruction of the canteen; that we have made laws for the United States army that govern 60,000 enlisted men. But the canteen is not destroyed, but rather benefited by removing beer and other intoxicating liquors from it. All the law now does is to prohibit the sale of such in any post exchange or canteen. The canteen is not injured, but purged of its objectionable features. So we are the best friends the canteen ever had; are we not?"

"The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has a better opinion of the soldiers. We believe that numbers of them do not want the beer and were glad to have it removed from the canteen. Brigadier General Anson S. Daggett, who served as an officer in the United States army forty years, presented a strong set of testimonials against the liquor-infested canteen as it used to be. He says: 'It presents the saloon to soldiers in its most unobjectionable form. It makes the soldiers feel that the thing to do is to spend money there, where all share in the profits. Men who enter the service free from habits of both drink and debt acquire both, for the credit system fixes the latter upon them. Nor is it right to keep a constant temptation before the total abstainers and moderate drinkers for the purpose of controlling the few drunkards.'

"All those who favor having liquor put back into the canteen consider the liquor-loving soldiers only; such are of little account, anyway. Why not consider the total abstainers and keep liquor out for their sakes? A great many soldiers would never take a drink if it was not pressed upon them by way of treating, and they dislike to appear ungracious by refusing. One soldier from Fort Myer said to me: 'When the wine and beer were actually sent out of the canteen some of us fellows went in and bought pie and milk, feeling sure that no one would ask us to take a drink. It is the officers who want the liquor, not the men. When the drunkards get into the guardhouse sober men are detailed to guard them.' 'Recruiting papers state that none but temperate men are wanted. We mothers who provide the men feel that we have a word to say as to their treatment. If they are temperate when they enlist we want them to remain so. Who knows so well what is good for them as we who have reared them? It is time for us to agitate as to the examples set them by their officers.'

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The regular meeting of the club on Tuesday was convened at the usual hour with Mrs. Robert A. Blackburn, vice-president, in the chair, and Mrs. Ezra Parker, owing to the absence of Mrs. F. L. Church, acting as secretary pro tem. At the close of the business hour, Mrs. Edgar W. Pack, chairman literary program, presented a paper on "Our Country—Recent Growth and Developments," which continued the line of thought and study carried on during the winter. Mrs. Pack, beginning with the Columbian exposition in Atlanta, Georgia, led to a strop plea for Booker T. Washington and illuminated a lucid idea of the man's life, his influence and inestimable worth to the country and his people. The Hawaiian question at the time of Cleveland's administration, the Niagara Falls as a great power coming into prominence, the Venezuelan question were touched upon, leading to the admission of Utah and—woman's suffrage.

Mrs. Dr. A. L. Bryant took up the administration of Garfield, and of Arthur, the condition of public affairs under Rutherford Hayes, and touched upon the dredging of the Mississippi river, the great railroad strike, and the Seeley trip to Alaska, which abounded in pathos and adventures.

At the close of the regular program came a sharp and animated discussion on woman's rights, in which nearly every member present participated. There was a good attendance.

A SURPRISE SHOWER.

The stork and baby Karl Forest Hinan held high carnival on Wednesday in the charming home of Mrs. Price V. Brown, Brand boulevard. Twenty-four mothers and almost as many babies were welcomed by the hostess, who then drove to the home of Mrs. William Hinan and, with a pressing invitation, secured Mrs. Hinan and her little son, less than a month old. When ushered into the presence of so many happy mothers and such delightful babies, she was almost completely overcome with surprise and pleasure, as she recognized the faces of many of the members of the Neighborhood Club, and of several former Los Angeles friends. The ladies in this jolly club had long since planned the unique and thoroughly pleasant affair, and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. H. Howe, Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Parker and various other members.

The luncheon, served at individual tables, was both dainty and elaborate.

MRS. MOYSE ENTERTAINS.

When Mrs. John Moyses, of Fifth street, entertained, with the assistance of the members of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church, on Tuesday evening, she proved herself a most capable hostess, having provided entertainment very pleasing to her many guests. The P. E. O. octette furnished some of their sweetest music and gave one of their famous lullabys. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moyses contributed numbers, as did Mrs. George U. Moyses. A trombone solo was much enjoyed. The piece de resistance of the whole good program was offered by Mrs. Johnston when she presented a humorous poem, winning rounds of applause. Nearly sixty were present.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Examinations are the programme at the High School. The following pupils on account of excellence in their work were excused from all examinations:

Seniors.

Loraine Mitchell, Louisa McPeak, Irene Ward.

Juniors.

Lester Adams, Earl Kern

Tenth Grade.

Owen Rhodes, Clyde Morrow.

Ninth Grade.

Granville McClure, Evelyn Ryan, Anna Woodbury, Bernice Williams, Orpha Stancellif.

The class play to be given on Tuesday evening, June 16, on account of the expense of costumes and outdoor stage, has been made a paid admission entertainment. The tickets are on sale at 25 cents with reserved seats at no extra charge.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY HALL.

A new desk has been provided for City Treasurer Doyle and a document rack has also been added to the furnishings. The public blacking brush, however, which for many weeks adorned the wash stand, has disappeared. While we have no desire to cast any reflections upon innocent parties, candor compels us to remark that suspicious characters have been circulating here to some extent lately, and the town marshal should keep his eyes open.

REGISTRATION.

Voters are reminded that if they have not registered since January 1st of this year they must do so in order to be qualified to vote at the November election. There is no exception to this rule, and the register will close forty days before the election occurs. The date of the election is November 3d. Register at the NEWS office, Glendale.

J. C. SHERER, Deputy.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

Mr. Joseph A. Nelson, who has been conducting the meat market on the corner of Third and Glendale avenue, has taken over the business that has been conducted in the Watson block by Mr. W. G. Watson and son. The store on the corner of Third street will be closed for the present.

Mr. T. F. Ogier has bought the bus from Mr. Watson and will assume control on Monday morning. Prices for single ride each way will be five cents, instead of two tickets for five cents as heretofore, but ticket books good for ten rides will be sold for twenty-five cents.

NOTICE.

The mass meeting of citizens which has been called for next Monday evening will not be held, the committee having the matter in charge having been instructed to purchase the site contemplated at the lowest figure possible.

THE HEN MAN AGAIN.

We discharged our hen editor some moons ago, hence our recent henless columns. But he turned up the other day and to show that his hand has not lost its cunning, turned out the following copy:

The hen is still boss of the roost and I notice in traveling through this beautiful section that she is as popular as ever. This is as it should be. If the hen would go out of business there would soon be no more eggs, and if the egg supply fell off entirely where would the hens come from? Without pausing for a reply I will remark that she would not come from. She would go to. The ancient conundrum "Which was first, the hen or the egg?" is still unanswered as far as I know. If any reader of the News knows, let him reply and relieve at once the anxiety of the waiting world. There is a man in town who knows everything, but just at present he is taking the rest cure and not telling it all. People still go into the chicken business. When a brain fagged unfortunate in the busy city gets weary of holding on to his job and drawing a regular salary, he turns longing eyes upon the pictures in the poultry journals and sighs for life in the beautiful country with a few thousand chickens in nice up-to-date chicken houses, setting on patent nests with trap doors to catch eggs, at forty cents a dozen. He gloats over the pictures for awhile, figures up his bank account, does some little sums in addition and multiplication, throws up his situation, moves into the beautiful country and buys an incubator. He has figured it out that an incubator at twenty-four dollars and two or three hundred eggs for a starter, although a modest beginning, costs less money than full-grown laying hens at six bits per. And it's only a question of four or five months until the three or four hundred feathered products of the incubator will be laying about fifteen dozen eggs a day and the problem of the centuries will be solved. He gets the machine started and by alternate roasting and chilling the unfortunate eggs, gets through a miserable anxious twenty-one day existence. Then some of the eggs yield wriggling, down-covered bipeds that cheer the heart of the millionaire-to-be, by standing on two weak and wobbly legs winking at the daylight, hesitating whether to be or not to be; a goodly number at the end of twenty-four hours deciding the question in the negative. About thirty-nine survive, but he knows just where he made his mistake and he cheerfully sets the thing again, having perhaps better luck next time.

When the four months have passed, he finds that instead of having an income producing lot of properly behaved hens, he has a scrubby collection of chicks, mostly roosters, and all more or less cherishing a profound disgust for life. But the man has learned something in four months, and who is so sordid as not to be willing to give up a regular salary, regular hours, regular anything for knowledge, real knowledge, knowledge of the chicken business! Perhaps the man went out into the country and went to work without overalls, wore gloves, real gloves—for a day or two—see him at the end of four months, four strenuous months in the society of a lot of debilitated chickens—he wears overalls fastened on by one suspender to which they are attached by baling wire; he is bare-footed or may be has shoes that don't match; his hat is frayed around the edges and elsewhere; his air is depressed and his attitude careless. He was up last night powdering his chicks with Lice Discourager, and somehow or other he has lost the zest for life. Ever know a woman to give up a luxurious life to go into the chicken business? Yes, they do sometimes; get tired of the giddy whirl of society and want to retire and rest! See her six months later as she wanders amongst the ruins of fond hopes attired in a mother Hubbard, reeking with the aroma of carboic acid and the perfume of insect powder. If she sees you coming she will dodge you, for she no longer dresses for company. Catch her by chance in her hours of ease, a watering pot in one hand and a dead chicken in the other and list to her tale of woe! But you won't do it the second time, not if you can help it. Once she could discuss politics, logarithms, prohibition, the weather—all sorts of alluring topics—now she converses on one subject only and its subdivisions are rump, scaly leg, incubators, egg foods, cockrels, bumble foot and capons. You try to change the subject to something more cheerful, the new cemetery, the famine in India, the prospects of Debs election and that sort of thing, but it won't work, and you go off inspired to write a monologue on the "Woman of the Future and a World Without Hens."

THE BERRY BUSINESS AND THE FAILURE OF SANE MIHARA.

Sane Mihara, the Japanese merchant and general business agent of his fellow countrymen at Tropic, is in the hands of his creditors, being bankrupt, to the extent of some $20,000. The principal creditors are the Japanese American Bank of Los Angeles, the First National Bank of Glendale, D. Griswold and J. A. Logan, of Tropic. Aside from these he is indebted to other business concerns and individuals in Tropic and probably elsewhere. Mr. Parcher, president of the Berry Growers' Association, who is probably as capable by reason of his business dealings with Sane, of forming a just opinion of the unfortunate bankrupt, as any one can, believes that he has been perfectly honest in his transactions and is simply the victim of a combination of unfortunate circumstances and of an ambition which over-reached. Mihara has put in the hands of the Japanese bank for collection from his countrymen, who are indebted to him, bills amounting to $8,000. He acted in the capacity of employment agent and probably to some extent as a banker, advancing small sums to his countrymen who were carrying on the berry business. Last year was not a successful one in that industry and this season so far is proving much worse. It is a case of overproduction in conjunction with a relatively decreased demand. The Japanese are in control of the principal berry fields in this section and around Burbank, and have, unwisely as the event has proved, allowed their ambition to lure them out of reasonable bounds as to acreage planted; the output in this section of Southern California being this year approximately twice as heavy as it was last season. The canneries are not packing any strawberries this season, which fact is largely responsible for the slump in the local market. At this time last year the Berry Growers' Association had sold to the canneries something like 700 tons of berries as against none this year. Mihara declares his intention of going to work and paying his creditors in full.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

Washington, D. C., May 27, 1908.
Register and Receiver,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Sirs: It becomes apparent that the resurvey of the Imperial Valley townships now nearing completion will result in lotting narrow strips between entered lands. Although these strips may have been claimed by entrymen as parts of the regular subdivisions established by the erroneous and unauthorized survey, they will be public lands of the United States subject to entry as soon as the plats of the survey have been filed.

These lands have doubtless, in many instances, been valuably improved and in some cases surveyed into town lots and sold by persons claiming them as parts of entered legal subdivisions, and the persons now in possession have such equities in the lands as calls for relief at the hands of the government. These strips will, in all probability, be too narrow and too long to be inviting to bona fide home-seekers, and will more than likely in some cases be appropriated by persons whose principal object would be to speculate by selling them to the persons now claiming them.

There is no law under which the persons now claiming these strips, in connection with abutting lands, can be given a preferred right to acquire title, but congress will be asked to enact a law which will give them such a right, and in aid of this proposed law, and for the purpose of defeating speculative entries, the lands embrace in the strips referred to will be withdrawn from all forms of appropriation or entry until congress has had an opportunity to grant the relief mentioned, and this withdrawal will be made as soon as these strips can be identified from the plats of the survey.

In the meantime you will please give as wide publicity as possible to this announcement, but you will not be authorized to incur expense in publishing the notice of it in the newspapers, and you are directed to bring this announcement directly to the attention of all persons who, to your knowledge, contemplate settlement upon any of the lands mentioned, and advise them that any right gained by such settlement is likely to be defeated by such action as congress may take in the premises.

Very respectfully,
FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

Approved May 28, 1908.
